

YOUTH WEBINAR SERIES

From a Refugee to a Global Citizen

SHARING LIFE STORIES OF TRANSFORMATION

Our young days are usually marked with sunny, warm, and bright moments flooded with hope and joy, but uninvited guests of life such as insecurities and uncertainties may also appear on the life journey in unexpected and unprepared forms.

Often stumbled and shaken, 'young' we slog through the hardships and challenges in our own ways and move on.

This is especially true for refugee youth.

Here are three young people who are making their ways embracing 'who they are' despite the challenge they have faced as refugees. Determined to get through the huddles in their paths with resilience and faith in themselves, they have reshaped their identity from refugees to global citizens.

Come and join the stage where these young leaders share their stories. Be inspired, be empowered, and be a messenger of hope yourself!

Speakers

“The moment I felt relieved”

22ND APRIL (THU), 2021

My name is Claudine Uwizeyimana, Burundian by Natinality but based in Zimbabwe for twelve years now as a refugee. Making a difference in people’s lives and effecting positive social change in the community is the most important aspect of a future to me than any other. All thanks to refugeehood.

“Stories as language for global citizenship Title of the session”

29TH APRIL (THU), 2021

A Syrian advocate for mental health, program manager of storytelling and communication program. Starting my journey in a refugee shelter, I have been supporting families and young people with psycho-social support programs in #MeWeIntl. I see my journey as a refugee through the lens of global citizenship, which empowers me to support my community.

“I can be a global citizen, too”

6TH MAY (THU), 2021

A Palestinian clinical pharmacist and public health professional from Balata refugee camp in Nablus city. I believe the world is huge and can take all of us in. I have big hopes for all Palestinian refugees to become global citizens with basic human rights and freedom. I am ready to share my journey of becoming a global citizen and how it changed my perspectives and experiences. Youth is where it all begins.
